

The Stubai-Cup 2020 takes place!

The Austrian Ministry of Health reports that a stay in Tyrol is possible without hesitation.

current informations can be found under:

<https://www.tirol.at/informationen-coronavirus>

Should I be worried about travelling to Tirol?

Tirol is currently not considered a high-risk area. There are neither travel restrictions nor travel warnings for Tirol. As a result, there is no reason not to come to Tirol.

Can I cancel my holiday?

As Tirol is currently not considered a high-risk area, there is no fundamental reason to cancel your holiday. That means if you do decide to cancel, it is likely the standard cancellation conditions of your accommodation provider will apply. For more information, please contact your accommodation provider or your travel insurance company.

Where can I find official and up-to-date information on the spread of the virus?

The Austrian Federal Ministry of Health provides information on its website (in German) about the spread of coronavirus worldwide and the current situation in Austria. For the latest up-to-date information please visit the website of the Austrian Agency for Health and Food Safety (AGES) and the updates provided by the die regional government of Tirol (in German).

A hotline operated by AGES gives information on transmission, symptoms and prevention of coronavirus: 0800 555 621 (7 days a week, 24 hours a day)

How can I protect myself from coronavirus?

As with standard winter flu, the best way to protect yourself from coronavirus is by washing your hands several times a day with soap and water or an alcohol-based disinfectant. If you have to cough, cover your nose and mouth with a disposable tissue (not your hands) and avoid direct contact with people who are ill.